

Welcome: noun

Definition: Received with pleasure and hospitality into one's company or home: a welcome guest

Dear Lower School Parents,

Welcome to Wellington! You have officially become Lower School parents, and I hope that results in a feeling of joy. Even though the current school year will soon end for our students, we are already planning for your arrival in August. We have worked with the Admissions team and the entire Lower School faculty to thoughtfully place your child in the appropriate class. Please note that we do not make class lists public until August at which time you can log on to the Veracross parent portal to see final class lists and teacher assignments. We thank you for your trust and eagerly anticipate welcoming you and your child to the new school year.

As we enter the summer months, we urge you to support ongoing learning. In early July you will receive your parent login to the Veracross parent portal. On Veracross you will find a collection of resources to support growth and investigations across all subject areas and grade levels. We hope you will dedicate time each day for your child to continue learning. Our online resources are differentiated to support the unique skills and interests of each student and we are certain you will find appropriate resources to support learning for your child.

Until your parent portal access is available, information on how to access summer learning resources can be found at www.wellington.org/new-parent-resources.

On behalf of the Lower School faculty, I extend a sincere welcome to Wellington. As we clean, move and reorganize our classrooms, we are already looking forward to the start of a new school year. We are delighted that you will be with us on the journey.

With warm regards,

Jill Webb
Head of Lower School
